The United Jewish Organizations of Williamsburg, Inc. (UJO) was founded in 1966 to help families in need in the predominately Hassidic community of South Williamsburg. Today, UJO serves and advocates for more than 70,000 community residents and 148 not-for-profits, religious, educational and charitable organizations and civic associations in the Jewish communities of Williamsburg, Clinton Hill and Bedford-Stuyvesant.

UJO of Williamsburg is a direct provider of social and housing services, and is the central address for urban planning, public health and community development services for the Jewish community of Greater Williamsburg. As a liaison to public agencies, we support and nurture the growth of this traditional community so that it may continue to contribute to New York City's diverse cultural fabric.
