Metropolitan Council on Jewish Poverty

As a leader in social services, Met Council is the voice of the Jewish poor and the first line of defense for our community's needy. Met Council fights poverty through comprehensive social services and treats every individual with dignity and respect. Their grassroots Jewish Community Council network strengthens families and neighborhoods throughout New York City.

Sephardic Community Federation

The Sephardic Community Federation ("SCF") is the umbrella government relations and public policy arm of the Sephardic community. SCF advocates on behalf of the dozens of yeshivas and social service organizations in the community and serves as the liaison between the community and elected officials. SCF is also working to secure much-needed relief for parents with children in schools, and was one of the driving forces behind the recently enacted $600 million tax-credit for school-age children in New York State.

Kiryas Joel

Nestled in Orange County, New York, Kiryas Joel is a unique Hasidic community where everyday life revolves around traditional values and the centrality of family and customs of Hasidic and Orthodox Jewish life. Kiryas Joel boasts everything from an impressive network of public and private social service agencies, yeshivos, and their own public school for developmentally disabled children, to their own fire department, booming economic and housing development, and a thriving business center.

Yeled V'Yalda Early Childhood Center

A dynamic not-for-profit social service agency whose mission is to serve the whole child and the family. The agency provides a multi-cultural spectrum of people in New York City with a variety of educational programs and social services, offering a seamless blend of child care and developmental services, as well as health and nutritional guidance.
